Course Outline
2018
ECON 303: LAW AND ECONOMICS (15 POINTS)

Semester 1 (1183)

Course Prescription
Economics analysis of law and organisation, and the application of economics to: property rights, patents and natural resource management; contracts, long-run contracts, public sector contracts, smart contracts, enforcement, role of market forces, risk aversion, and remedies for breach; economic theory for torts, negligence rules, strict liability, multiple torts and product liability. Special topics may include crime, efficiency of common law, insider trading, and business law.

Programme and Course Advice
Prerequisites: ECON 201 (Microeconomics), and COMLAW 101 (Law in a business Environment) or LAW 101 (The Legal System).

Please note: As LAW 101 is no longer offered LAW 121G (Law and Society) will be accepted.

Goals of the Course
This course gives students a solid understanding of, and experience with, the application of economic models to law. Although intermediate-level microeconomic models are used, emphasis is on application and typically limited to graphical analysis. The course provides a comprehensive coverage of the field of law and economics for students: (1) intending to undertake graduate-level research in economics; (2) completing a double major that includes law; (3) completing a major in policy fields; and (4) majoring in other fields, including arts and science.

Learning Outcomes
By the end of this course it is expected that the student will be able to apply an appropriate economic model to a range of topics relating to law and organization. In particular, the student should be able to:
1. frame up a problem suitable for economic analysis;
2. construct and apply a model to a range of topics in property, contracts and torts;
3. describe the efficiency attributes of alternative legal rules; and
4. demonstrate how economic models can be applied to real-world problems in law and economics.
Content Outline
The course will be taught according to the following topic groups:

Topic 1: Economic theory of property rights, Coase theorem, evolution of property rights, common property, innovation, institutions and economic growth, fugitive resources. (Approximately Weeks 2-4)

Topic 2: Economic theory of contract, risk aversion, transaction costs, role of market forces, smart contracts, long-run contracts, enforcement of contract, economics of remedies. (Approximately weeks 5-7)

Topic 3: Economic theory of torts, negligence rules, strict liability, New Zealand’s ACC, and product liability. (Approximately Weeks 8-10)

Topic 4: A selection of topics that reflects contemporary issues. Topics can include economic efficiency of common law, organisational design, crime and optimal deterrence, environmental law, and contracting in the public sector. (Weeks 11-12)

Learning and Teaching
There are three one-hour lectures each week. Course material will be available on CANVAS.

Teaching Staff
Professor Basil Sharp
Office OGGB 655
Tel: 923 5366
Email: b.sharp@auckland.ac.nz

Learning Resources
There is no recommended text. The following book is on Short Loan (2 hour) at the Kate Edger Information Commons (Level 1):

Course material on CANVAS will contain references for additional reading.

Assessment
Assessment will be based on Coursework: 4 Assignments @ 10% which counts for 40% of the total mark; and TWO in-class tests @ 30% for the remaining 60%. There is no final exam.

Plussage does not apply.

Each assignment will involve the application of economic models to topics covered by the lecture material and are to be handed in to the Assignment Centre, Level 0, Owen G. Glenn Building.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Learning Outcome</th>
<th>Assignments 1-4</th>
<th>Two tests</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>X</td>
<td>X</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>X</td>
<td>X</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>X</td>
<td>X</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>X</td>
<td>X</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Inclusive Learning
Students are urged to discuss privately any impairment-related requirements face-to-face and/or in written form with the course coordinator/lecturer and/or tutor.

Student Feedback
Students will be asked to complete evaluations (course, teaching, tutoring) at the end of the course. Professor Sharp encourages open, free and frank feedback at any time during the semester.

Copyright Warning Notice
Material provided is protected by copyright and has been copied by and solely for the educational purposes of the University under licence. You may not sell, alter or further reproduce or distribute any part of the course material to any other person. Where provided to you in electronic format, you may only print from it for your own private study and research. Failure to comply with the terms of this warning may expose you to legal action for copyright infringement and/or disciplinary action by the University.

Cheating and Plagiarism
The University of Auckland will not tolerate cheating, or assisting others to cheat, and views this as a serious academic offence. The work that a student submits for grading must be the student's own work, reflecting his or her learning.

Plagiarism is a form of cheating. In coursework assignments, plagiarism can occur if you use the work and ideas of others without explicit acknowledgment and referencing. Work can be plagiarised from many sources, including books, journal articles, the internet, and other students’ assignments. A student’s assessed work may be reviewed against electronic source material using computerised detection mechanisms. Upon reasonable request, students may be required to provide an electronic version of their work for computerised review.

The penalties for plagiarism can be severe, including losing some or all of the marks for the work. Major offences can be sent to the University’s Discipline Committee, where further penalties can be imposed.

The document Guidelines: Conduct of Coursework provides further advice on how to avoid plagiarism. It can be found at: www.business.auckland.ac.nz/conductcoursework

Help with Academic Referencing
Acknowledgement of sources is an important aspect of academic writing. If you are in doubt about how to reference properly, ask someone – your lecturers, tutors and the Student Learning Centre (SLC) are good places to start. The University's Referenc©ite website www.cite.auckland.ac.nz provides students with a one-stop online resource for academic referencing needs. Referenc©ite explains the essentials of referencing and how to avoid plagiarism. It also includes practical tools to help students reference correctly, use references effectively in writing, and gives fast access to some major reference formats with examples.

Third Party Assistance with Coursework
While you are encouraged to improve your coursework writing skills and are permitted to seek assistance from third parties you are advised that there are important limits on the amount and type of assistance that can be given to you in completing your assignments, including group work. Third parties include fellow students, reading groups, friends, parents, SLC tutors, and paid-for professional editing services.

There is a set of guidelines at: www.business.auckland.ac.nz/thirdpartyassistance which clearly indicates the type of advice and assistance permitted. If you are seeking the assistance of any third party you are required to provide them with a copy of the guidelines prior to them helping or assisting you. You are also required to only seek and accept help using a printed version of your work, not an electronic version. You must keep a copy of this printed version and produce it if required.